DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-14 are presented for examination.

Claim Objections

Claim 5 is objected to because of the following informalities: the word "propanolol" is misspelled. The correct spelling is "propranolol". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim 7 is objected to because of the following informalities: the word "metaprolol" is misspelled. The correct spelling is "metoprolol". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 1614

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Powell et al. U.S. Patent No. 6,140,319 A.

Claims 1-7 and 14 are drawn to a medicament dosage unit consisting essentially of a beta-adrenergic blocker and a platelet inhibitor in a single unit. Dependent claims are drawn to aspirin as the platelet inhibitor and atenolol, propranolol, timolol and metoprolol as the beta-blockers. Claims 8-11 are drawn to a method of treating cardiovascular disease comprising administering a single dosage unit consisting essentially of a beta-adrenergic blocker and a platelet inhibitor. Claims 12-13 are drawn to a method for making a cardiovascular protective dosage unit, which consists essentially of formulating a single dosage unit consisting essentially of a beta-adrenergic blocker and a platelet inhibitor.

Powell et al. teach a single dosage unit of a vasopeptidase inhibitor combined with a beta-blocker and an antiplatelet agent (column 2, lines 5-13). It differs in that it includes a vasopeptidase inhibitor. The transitional phrase "consisting essentially of" limits the scope of a claim to the specified materials or steps "and those that do not materially affect the basic and novel characteristic(s)" of the claimed invention. In re Herz, 537 F.2d 549, 551-52. For the purposes of searching for and applying prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102 and 103, absent a clear indication in the specification or claims of what the basic and novel characteristics actually are, "consisting essentially of" will be construed as equivalent to "comprising." If the applicant contends that additional steps or material in the prior art are excluded by the recitation of "consisting essentially of," applicant has the burden of showing that the introduction of additional steps or components would materially change the characteristics of applicant's invention. In re De Lajarte, 337 F.2d 870, 143 USP 256 (CCPA 1964). See also Ex parte Hoffman, 12 USPQ2d 1061, 1063-64 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989). It does not appear that the addition of a vasopeptidase inhibitor would materially change the characteristics of the applicant's invention, since a vasopeptidase inhibitor would also treat cardiovascular disease. Since there is no detail regarding the method of making a medicament, it reads on the "single dosage form" of the prior art. Powell et al. teach the compositions useful for cardiovascular disorders such as angina pectoris (column 1, line 66 to column 2, line 1). Beta-blockers for the invention include agents such as propranolol, timolol, metoprolol and atenolol and antiplatelet agents such as aspirin (column 4, lines 6-28).

Thus the claims fail to patentably distinguish over the state of the art as represented by the cited references.

Accordingly, for the above reasons, the claims are deemed properly rejected and none are allowed.
